REPORT OF THE KINGSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT FOR 1934

With the appropriation of the town, contributions, and from the treasury of the department we have improved our equipment and facilities during the past year. The smaller hose, which was added, has proved its worth by its adaptability in causing less damage to interior fires and general use elsewhere.

During the past year a Ladies' Auxiliary of the Department has been formed and has been very helpful both socially and financially to the department.

The fire wells, established by the town, are a great asset, being located at vital points and offer needed protection to areas so covered.

During the past year as in previous years the majority of the fires have been caused by defective chimneys. Do not neglect yours. A dangerous chimney is one of our greatest liabilities.

GEORGE B. STEVENS,
Chief.

REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD

The Values of Music in Our Schools

The qualities of thought and feeling out of which good music springs are altogether desirable. They reflect a desire for beauty; they reveal the spirit of man in deep and universal relations and impulses. In common with the other arts and literature, music tends to develop a finer life in the individual.

Children in the elementary schools should be taught to value beauty of tone and to secure it in their singing, both for the sake of their musical taste and for correct use of their own voices. Their short songs should have grace of melody and simple perfection of form, revealing grace and clarity of musical thinking. These qualities are desirable as musical experience and may also be analyzed and valued. Technically the pupil should learn, by the end of the eighth year, almost all elementary theory, and be able to sing at sight fluently and in parts simple hymn tunes, and to sing with enjoyment, after some practice, a number of easier choruses from operas and oratorios, as well as some comparatively elaborate art songs and part songs.

Up to the ninth year the public-school pupil's approach to music has necessarily been largely that of song. Recently much use has been made of the phonograph and other mechanical players, as well as radio, in broadening and enriching the pupil's appreciation, but even when the approach is thus broadened, the pupil can not by the end of the eighth year attain an adequate understanding of the great works that crown the heights of musical expression. The musical forms used in the larger part of the pupil's instruction are, until the end of this period, too simple to present very elaborate thematic development, and the amount of technical proficiency to be gained is too great to leave time for conscious consideration of larger art values, even in those phases that might be deemed appropriate to the child before adolescence. These largely must be left to the individual himself or to the other institutions to which he may go.

Music has an aesthetic nature and value. The endeavor to create beauty has ever been a part of the life of man. Music characteristically deals with broad fundamental moods rather than specific experiences. It is more than a figure of speech to call it "the universal language." Its tone and the progress of the tonal design add beauty to what otherwise would be realistic description. In music, then, the depths of man's emotional nature are reached, are quickened, and made articulate.

Music has great value as a socializing force. It has been called "the most social of all the arts." Few other experiences bring about group feeling as ensemble singing or playing. Music is one of the joys of social intercourse, which means happiness and enrichment of life. Study of music of other times and other lands, involving as it does a study of the related political and social development of the peoples of many lands, should result in a wider appreciation of the worth of artistic achievements and of the peoples who have made the achievements, and a broadening of the student's interests and sympathies to include forms of talent and kinds of endeavor which he might otherwise hold in small regard. There are many individualists in every community, and if music has the power to bring them together with others and imbue these persons with social consciousness and thus make them over into a more useful type of citizen, then surely we have here a social force of much importance.

Music has value in the worthy use of leisure. Perhaps we should direct our attention to the fact that, as modern industrial conditions seem to be demanding shorter and shorter days of labor, the exceedingly complex sociological problem looms up as to the disposal to be made of the increasing longer periods of leisure. These longer periods of leisure should be utilized to uplift and not degrade the individual. Music is one of the most potent and one of the most available agencies for bringing about such an end. The power of music in this respect is greatly increased when the individual himself takes part in a musical performance, even if only on a plane of amateur proficiency.

Music has its value as a vocation. An army of persons are engaged in the musical profession in this country, and apparently many millions of dollars are spent annually for musical performance and education. More and more is this money going to native-born teachers and performers. The number who do more or less of vocational work in music is quite comparable to the number engaged in many other vocational occupations. Music should thus be recognized as an important subject and given a generous place in the curriculum and in financial support.

Just so much do we appreciate the value and training in music and are happy in the thought that the subject is well and ably handled in the schools of Kingston. We are sincere in our hopes that its influence and help may be felt in other schools of this Union and State, for we feel that music, when properly directed, can exemplify what education should be at its best. And it can discharge the great and central mission of all education, which is to raise the level of human quality.

Very respectfully,

ANDREW CHRISTIE,

Chairman, School Board of Kingston.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT

To the School Board and Citizens of Kingston:

I herewith submit my eighth annual report. Your consideration is respectfully asked. Notice the tables which follow.

Personnel

Three changes in the teaching staff have occurred since the last report. Mrs. Horsfall, after a service of nearly four good years in your schools, late in the school year resigned because of sickness in her family. Mr. Frank Lawlor of Conway was secured to complete the year. For the present year Mrs. Isabelle Magnusson, a resident of Kingston and a teacher of experience, was engaged to succeed Mr. Lawlor at the Patten School. Miss Edna Thereau of Derry succeeded Mrs. Evelyn Modlick, resigned after four years of valuable service at the Plains school. All the other positions remain in charge of the same persons. The continuous service which your staff has given you indicates much in the way of their loyalty to you and your children as well as your appreciation. Continuity of training means a resulting continuity of progress on the part of your pupils.

Pupils

The progress of your pupils is well illustrated by the following results taken from the May, 1934, tests:

	Reached or bettered the grade	Below grade
Grade 1	20	1
Grade 2	12	3
Grade 3	14	2
Grade 4	19	0

Grade 5	11	5
Grade 6	13	3
Grade 7	19	1
Grade 8	13	2

The results are on the whole pleasing and reflect sound and effective instruction. But one grade presents a major problem for correction during the current year. Lofty as it may seem the aim of present-day education is against pronouncing any child a failure. Rather the stress should be to adjust the work to the ability of the child.

Costs

Below you will note a comparison of elementary school costs for each of the districts in this Union. A comparison of last year's net costs with those of the year before indicates just how much of a reduction has been accomplished. In your case the decrease is noticeable and worthy of comment as it shows a will on the part of the Board to keep costs down in accordance with the trends of the times. The value of State Aid to you is well illustrated by an examination of the following statistics.

Per Pupil Costs 1933-34

Improvements

Several improvements have been added since the last report. The Plains School has now been equipped with sanitary toilets for both boys and girls. All the ceilings have been whitened. The interior at West Kingston has been painted. A new heating unit has been installed at South Kingston.

This last addition is of the circulating-ventilating type and is large enough to insure a 70° temperature in all kinds of weather. The fresh air is taken from out-of-doors, heated, and circulated about the room while the foul air is extracted from the room by means of a ventilation placed at the base of the chimney. We look for this installation to be a great aid as a preventative against the spread of colds and other forms of illness among the children. It is hoped that other units of this type may be added to the other rooms.

Appreciation

The past year has been very trying and difficult. But midst it all we find a ray of hope in the loyal support accorded the schools by the citizenry of Kingston. I express my gratitude to all who have contributed to the successes of the past year. The local Parent-Teacher Association is a wonderful help both as a contributing agency for dental and other work and as a medium for interpreting child problems into practical schoolroom procedures and understandings. I wish more people would join and attend the meetings. To the School Board and Teachers, I am most appreciative. Their co-operation has been of the right sort and has contributed much toward the advancement of the children's interests and progress.

Respectfully submitted,

HAROLD C. BOWLEY,

Superintendent of Schools.
